QUEEN ELIZABETH II RETURNS HOME

Extension Service Conference For District Gets Under Way

DISTRICT conference of extension agents and their staffs gets under way in Washington C. H. On the front row are George R. Eastwood, district supervisor; W. W. Montgomery, Fayette County agent; John McCormick, Clinton County agent; and Albert Cobb, associate Fayette County agent.

Two-day Meeting To Take Up Major Phases of Work

County agricultural extensive service agents and members of their staffs from 22 southwestern Ohio counties and many of the executives of the state Extension Service gathered in Washington C. H. Thursday for a two-day conference designed to improve the service and find any flaws in the program as it is now being conducted.

When the first session was called to order in the Hotel Washington, 67 of them had registered. A few more were expected later.

The conference is considered one of the important phases of extension service in the development of agriculture; the attendance of so many state executives and specialists from Ohio State University was concrete evidence of that.

AMONG THOSE at the conference were both men and women—the men to discuss farming problems and the women to discuss farm home questions. Both joined in the analysis and development plans for the 4-H program.

The conference was opened at 10 o'clock Thursday morning with Miss Helen Stanfield, the home demonstration agent of Clermont County, presiding.

To get things underway with a buoyant spirit, Miss Eva Kinsey, the assistant state home demonstration agent, led the group singing.

THE OPENING SESSION broke up soon into seven groups for discussions of as many different subjects related to the Extension Service. They covered camping; projects and record books; training for agents responsible for club work and 4-H studies available and needed; special activities; relationship with commercial companies; review of recognitions and awards systems and advisor training program.

C. C. Lang, the state 4-H club leader revealed to the gathering that there are 65,000 4-H club members in Ohio this year. And, he asked the group studying this phase of the program: "Should we have 100,000 members by 1960?" He also asked whether there should be two full time extension service agents

Complaints are reaching this office repeatedly about the need for considerable improvement in many of the city's streets.

Observers are mentioning repeatedly that holes are being allowed to go unpatched until they reach a point where it will take three times more work and expense to fix them than if given more regular inspection and attention.

It is recognized, of course, that the city does not have an overabundance of finances to take care of this situation, but there may be merit in the suggestion that a small hole in a much-used street sometimes on the paved streets, if patched properly and promptly, will give less trouble than if allowed to go until it requires much more work and expense.

Girl Who Has Cancer Swamped by Kindness

ATLANTA, Feb. 7.—A frail little girl with cancer, who won hearts around the world last year when she asked for a Valentine, is stronger now and she hopes she can help others this Feb. 14.

A year ago, 13-year-old Jacquelyn Marre, confined to bed or a wheel chair and given only three months to live, wistfully hoped she "could be someone's Valentine."

Through the marvels of modern communication and the unpredictable wonder of human kindness, the wish was answered in staggering fashion from the far corners of the earth.

About a million and a half pieces of mail flooded the modest Marre home, literally causing the floors to sag. The waste paper alone netted school drives several hundred dollars.

More than 500 boxes of candy and other gifts poured in. Opening of letters has gone on and on but still an estimated 50,000 envelopes remain sealed.

The candy and boxes were sent to orphan's homes and children's hospitals. Jackie, who can walk today, observed, in her gentle, halting way:

"I'm so glad I got the candy and Valentines because I could share them. I enjoy them more than wavy."

Her father, Arthur Marre, a physiotherapist, remarked, "This child is the most unselfish person I ever knew."

It was a year ago the world heard about Jackie. Her parents had noticed when she was nearly 11 that something was wrong. Doctors' diagnoses: Cancer. After the second of three major brain operations they termed it incurable.

Two years ago Jackie was unconscious on Valentine Day and too sick to know when Christmas came. That's why last year, when her parents brought her home from a hospital, Valentine Day was so important.

She asked for a Valentine, and her life hasn't been the same since. Sailors at sea made her their pinup girl; firemen, Girl Scout troops, businessmen, children and a general responded.

Money was returned with a request that it be given to cancer funds.

Many have continued writing and 600 sent Christmas cards.

Mrs. Marre, who has three younger children, tries to answer as many of the letters as she can.

Jackie has read that doctors last year gave her only three months to live but says with a smile, "I'm feeling fine. I fooled them."

Will the postman ring again at 416 Ninth Street NE, Atlanta, Ga., this Valentine Day?

Jackie hopes so, because she knows a lot of "really unfortunate" children with whom she'd like to share.

As the flock moved across the land she said those in the back rose up 10 or 15 feet and flew over those ahead of them to alight at the front of the moving mass "just like a huge rolling pin."

Every once in a while the whole flock would rise into the air and circle around "like a black cloud that made it look like dusk" and then settle down some place else.

Each Side Continues To Give Ground In Korea Negotiation

Gap Narrows On 2 Issues

Political Confab Idea Under Study

MUNSAN, Feb. 7.—(P)—Reds and Allies each gave ground Thursday and narrowed the gap on troop rotation and the future of displaced civilians.

Allied negotiators abandoned demands that the Communists trade displaced civilians for UN-held war prisoners and that impartial teams interview civilians to determine whether they want to live in North or South Korea.

The UN reiterated, however, that all prisoners must have the right to choose whether they want to be repatriated.

In an adjoining tent the Communists gave ground in the dispute over troop rotation during an armistice. The Allies said they would talk about the Communists' definition of coastal waters and consider dropping two demands relating to troop dispositions during a truce.

The key issue of whether the Reds have the right to build and repair North Korean airfields during an armistice has been shelved.

THE UN Command continued its study of a Red proposal that a high level political conference be held within 90 days after an armistice is signed to consider all Asian problems looking toward peace in Korea.

The Allies did not suggest a date for another full dress session on Armistice Agenda Item Five—recommendations to governments involved in Korea. The UN said Wednesday it would request another meeting after studying the Red draft.

Washington sources said the Communist proposal is under study by top level officials and Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway probably will be instructed to make a counter offer soon.

The proposal was forwarded to Washington by Ridgway.

A UN counter proposal would differ from the Communist plan in some respects, it was said, but not on the main point of holding a political conference if the present talks in Panmunjom succeed.

The problems of post armistice talks with the Reds on the future of Korea have long been foreseen and are understood to have been discussed in principle by the United States with Britain, France, and other UN countries fighting in Korea.

It is understood these discussions have made clear that the American government, as a member of the United Nations, has no objections to engaging in political talks on Korea questions, but would not want to be bound to discuss broader issues such as Formosa and Red China's bid for a UN seat. If the Reds try to force an agreement on discussion of such matters there may be some difficulty on the whole political conference project.

Snow Blankets Northern Ohio

CLEVELAND, Feb. 7.—(P)—A snowstorm moved across Northern Ohio Wednesday night and left Cleveland covered with a five and a half inch blanket.

Fort Wayne, Ind., on the west and Erie, Pa., on the east each reported seven inches of snow on the Northern Ohio reports included: Toledo, five inches; Mansfield and Findlay, four; Akron, three; Youngstown, four. The Central Ohio area got only a trace of snow.

No one was injured.

The driver of the car responsible for the wreck hurriedly drove away from the scene when the wreck occurred, Sheriff Hays stated.

The highway was covered with ice at the time the accident occurred.

Winter came. No more peanuts. Trouble!

Cotton disappeared from cushions of porch furniture. A basement rug leading to the upstairs was chewed to shreds.

Candy disappeared from a dish on a table inside the house. A hole was gnawed in the sill of an attic window, and Mrs. Bellmyre discovered the bottoms of her drapes nibbled away.

To make matters worse, a furnace man had to retrieve a squirrel which died in a furnace pipe when heat was turned on.

Primary Contests Take Form As 74 Seek Nominations Here

Races in this predominately Republican county loom for five of the nine county offices which must be filled from among the candidates who win the May primary election.

Twenty-four candidates got their petitions filed with the Fayette County Board of Elections before the 6:30 P. M. deadline on Wednesday.

Only three Democrats signified that they plan to vie for nomination to county offices.

POLITICIANS HERE deny there are more candidates out for the primary election than usual, and they say that pay increases voted at the last session of the Ohio General Assembly are not bringing out the candidates.

An official with the board of elections said many of the new candidates didn't even know that the salaries of some of the county officials had been increased.

Incumbents in the various offices, however, are fully aware of the salary increases, and most of them are running for their jobs again. Exceptions are Homer Miller, for commissioner; Frank E. Whiteside, for recorder, and Clark Wickensimer, for prosecuting attorney.

The sheriff's office, which formerly was one of the lowest paid positions, will be increased from $1,696.50 to $2,600 yearly when the term of the sheriff now in office expires.

LIKEWISE, THE recorder's salary will be raised from $1,560 to $2,400. The increases were voted at the last session of the Ohio General Assembly.

Road Blocked By Crash Near Madison Mills

Because a car with an unknown driver had stopped in the lane of traffic on the CCC, a mile north of Madison Mills at 6:30 o'clock Thursday morning, two trucks and an automobile figured in a wreck, and traffic was tied up for a long distance in both directions.

Sheriff Orland Hays investigated, and found the highway coated with ice for miles each side of Madison Mills.

A Dodge trailer truck, owned and driven by J. W. Brown, Garfield, Ky., was headed south, and an International dump truck, owned by the Hoge, Warren and Zimmerman Co. of Cincinnati, headed north, and driven by Willie Hall, and a Ford automobile driven by Hiram Holcomb, of Detroit, were involved.

Holcomb was headed north back of the dump truck.

When the dump truck slowed down for a car parked in the highway, Holcomb applied his brakes, and skidded into the dump truck, which was thrown out of control and across the highway in the path of the approaching Dodge truck.

The Dodge truck partly took the ditch to avoid hitting the dump truck, and as a result of the wreck the highway was blocked until the dump truck could be moved.

No one was injured.

The driver of the car responsible for the wreck hurriedly drove away from the scene when the wreck occurred, Sheriff Hays stated.

The highway was covered with ice at the time the accident occurred.

Winter came. No more peanuts. Trouble!

Cotton disappeared from cushions of porch furniture. A basement rug leading to the upstairs was chewed to shreds.

Candy disappeared from a dish on a table inside the house. A hole was gnawed in the sill of an attic window, and Mrs. Bellmyre discovered the bottoms of her drapes nibbled away.

Surprise Candidates Appear

Ohio Primary Election To Be Well-Scrambled

COLUMBUS, Feb. 7.—(P)—Surprise candidates for governor and U. S. senator have scrambled Ohio's primary election picture.

Former Gov. Thomas J. Herbert of Cleveland changed his mind and filed for the Republican gubernatorial nomination a few hours before Wednesday's deadline. He announced last Jan. 17 that he wouldn't run.

Soon after Michael V. DiSalle of Toledo, the resigned price stabilizer, filed for Democratic U. S. senator, State Rep. James M. Carney of Cleveland jumped into that race. Carney is minority leader in the Ohio House of Representatives.

George L. Mark of Cleveland, national commander of the Polish Legion of American War Veterans, also filed for senator. An unexpected candidate at the last minute was John W. Donahy of Hudson, son of the late Governor and U. S. Senator Vic Donahy.

That made it a four-way race among Democrats for the right to face Republican U. S. Sen. John W. Bricker in the Nov. 6 election. Bricker is unopposed for renomination.

HENRY M. BUSCH of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, and John Martin of Steubenville backed out of the senatorial race after Democratic leaders in Cleveland gave the nod to Carney.

Herbert made it a three-man race among Republicans for the right to challenge Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche in November. Lausche is unopposed for an unprecedented fourth term.

The other Republican candidates for governor are State Sen. Roscoe R. Walcutt of Columbus and Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati.

Taft is the brother of Sen. Robert A. Taft, who is seeking the Republican presidential nomination.

In all, 27 candidates filed for 18 nominations to nine offices, including:

Escapade Nabbed SHARON, Pa., Feb. 7.—(P)—An Ohio youth arrested by police for safecracking Wednesday, briefly escaped custody by diving 20 feet into the Shenango River through a second story window of City Hall.

Police, who withheld the youth's name, followed a trail of blood to the Sharon Herald newspaper building where they recaptured him.

The squadrons, with some 1,200 airmen and civilians, will move here about March 15, it was said. It will be joined by the 166th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron now at Lockbourne Air Base.

Canada To Run LANCASTER, Feb. 7.—(P)—Delmar A. Canaday, mayor of Pomeroy, has filed petitions for the Democratic nomination for U. S. representative in the 10th Congressional District. The district, which includes eight counties, is now served by Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins, a Republican.

Young Monarch To Take Oath, Bury Her Father

Coffin for King Being Made from Great Oak Tree

LONDON, Feb. 7.—(P)—Young Queen Elizabeth II returned to her homeland Thursday to ascend the throne and bury her father, King George VI.

The 25-year-old queen of the United Kingdom and the dominions overseas reached London airport at 4:15 p. m. (11:15 a. m. EST) after a flight from Nairobi, Kenya. It was exactly a week since she left London, as Princess Elizabeth, to make a round-the-world tour of five months.

ALREADY, the dutiful Elizabeth was queen—from the moment of her father's death.

She became so in her vacation lodge in Kenya Colony, far away in East Africa, where she had paused on her tour.

But her formal proclamation as the new sovereign, Elizabeth II, must be read first—before visiting her sorrowful family.

The proclamation, written from historic precedents by the Privy Council—hundreds of royal advisers, and representatives of commonwealth countries, and the lord mayor and aldermen of the ancient square-mile city of London, will be read first Friday by the Garter King of Arms, Sir George Bell.

Clad in medieval uniform, he will read from the balcony of St. James Palace, built by Henry VIII, father of the first Queen Elizabeth.

The proclamation was published in all English newspapers Thursday and will be repeated simultaneously with Sir George's reading at Temple Bar, ancient Fleet Street gateway to the old city of London.

It also will be read throughout the empire.

As it is read, flags at half staff in mourning for the dead sovereign will be hoisted to their mastheads at the words "God Save the Queen." They will fly for six hours in honor of the new ruler, then be lowered again to half staff until after her father's funeral.

AT SANDRINGHAM royal estate, where King George VI died peacefully in his sleep Wednesday morning, carpenters sawed, hammered and fitted the King's coffin from a great oak tree, felled months ago on the estate where he was born and died.

The body of the monarch, dead at 56 after years of strain and illness, is expected to lie in state for three or four days in the gray, 16th Century Sandringham Church, where he worshipped every Sunday he was in residence there.

One of Elizabeth's first duties is to make arrangements for her father's funeral.

The cabinet reportedly made tentative plans for the king's funeral to be held Feb. 18, one week from Monday, but the plans must be approved by the Queen.

The rule that none must loiter while the king is in residence at Sandringham was overlooked in death. Those who wished could linger and mourn. Streams of people filed silently past the great gates.

South Side Church Service Is Friday

A special missionary service is to be held at the South Side Church of Christ at 7:30 P. M. Friday, Rev. John J. Puckett, the pastor, has announced.

Willard Scott, a missionary recruit to the British West Indies, is to be the guest speaker.

A free will offering is to be taken to help carry on the missionary work.

Scott is to go to the island of Barbadoes, the easternmost island in the Indies, later this year. The island is only 20 miles long and 14 miles wide but has a population of more than 200,000. Very little missionary work has been done among the people, Rev. Puckett said.

Because of its semi-tropical climate Barbadoes is known as the "Riviera of the Caribbean" and is the only island in the West Indies where English is the common language.

He is a graduate of Kentucky Christian College and the Cincinnati Bible Seminary. He has served as minister in Kentucky and Ohio churches and is stationed at present at New Antioch in Clinton County.

He originally planned to go to China, but was balked by the civil war there. He then transferred his interest to the Caribbean islands.

Friday evening's service is to be open to the public, Rev. Puckett said.

Western Pioneer Buried Near Here

Funeral services for Carey Edson Long, one of the last surviving pioneers of the early West, were held at the Parrett Funeral Home at 2 P. M. Wednesday.

Rev. A. E. Huntington, a retired Methodist minister who is old enough to remember distinctly some of the exploits of those old Indian fighters, conducted the services.

The minister offered prayer and read from the Scripture and presented a memorial tribute to the tough little man who had helped settle the "wild West." He recalled many incidents from his own memory as he described the life of "Ed" Long and how much it had meant to America.

In conclusion he read the 23rd psalm.

Two hymns, "On Jordan's Stormy Banks," and "Good Night Here and Good Morning Up There," were sung by Mrs. Wilbur Knisley and Mrs. Kenneth Bonecutter. Mrs. Bonecutter also played the organ prelude and postlude.

Palbearers for the interment in the Madison Mills Cemetery were Edgar Campbell, Ray Fanning, Donald Dennen, Ross Hunter, Floyd Chaffin and Paul Dresbach.

Several Arrests During Thursday

Among the list of persons rounded up by the police and patrol on Wednesday, was a soldier listed for being in physical control of a motor vehicle while he was intoxicated, and two men for crossing yellow lines.

The soldier was Clarence E. Sheese, 22, of London. He was locked up until he could be given a hearing in municipal court Thursday afternoon.

James B. Matthews, Haverstown, and Jack Rhoads, Washington Pa. were the yellow line offenders. Both posted $15 bail and both forfeited their bond.

Orla Suttles, 59, city, was charged with not having an operators license.

Charles S. Villars, 67, Wilmington was arrested for permitting a driver who had no drivers' permit to operate his car.

Raymond E. Rose, Canfield, was fined $5 and costs for failing to yield the right of way. The costs were suspended.

Lincoln Day Dinner Plans Drafted Here

Further plans for the Lincoln Day dinner next Tuesday night were made by the executive committee of the Fayette County Young Republican Club at a meeting held Wednesday night in the Probate Court room at the Court House.

This year the enterprising young Republicans of the county plan to try something different in the way of a dinner.

Instead of the conventional banquet plate, those who attend the Lincoln Day fete at 7 P. M. next Tuesday will select their food from a table loaded with some of the best cooking in the county.

The affair has been planned as a covered dish dinner, and one of the best meals ever prepared for a political get-together has been lined up for the evening.

Invitations have been sent out to candidates in the May primary election and to those young Republicans on the present membership rolls. The committee emphasized that everyone—both young and older Republicans—are invited to come to the covered dish dinner and meeting, however.

Members of the committee which met here Wednesday night to lay final plans for the Lincoln Day dinner included: Mrs. Robert Minshall, Mrs. Robert Wilson, Chink Davis, Jim Perrill, Joe White and Tom Mark. Robert Brubaker, chairman of the program committee, was also present at the meeting.

Queen Elizabeth

lagers and farmers and their wives and children stood silently before the great gates, peering down the gravel drive at the great house where their king lay dead.

Royal gamekeepers, woodsmen and farmhands went quietly about their daily duties in barn and field.

Before every gate stood uniformed policemen, quietly telling those who asked that there was no more news.

Soon after Elizabeth reaches Sandringham Thursday night, a family service will be held by the Rev. Hector Anderson, rector of the village church.

WHEN THE TIME comes for the king's last departure, the coffin will be laid on a gun carriage escorted by the King's Troop of the Royal Horse Artillery, for the three-mile journey to the railway.

Another gun carriage will bear his body through London's stilled streets to Westminster Hall.

A catafalque was built in the hall to bear the coffin. On its planed oak top will lie the imperial crown, splendidly jeweled symbol of a never-empty throne.

The royal family and members of both houses of parliament will attend a short funeral service. The rest of Europe's major crowned heads—the kings of Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Belgium and Greece and Queen Juliana of the Netherlands—are expected to attend also.

Then the ancient baronial hall will be closed until the next day, when the King's subjects will be permitted to file past the coffin. Elizabeth will decide how long it will lie there in state.

From Westminster Hall, the body will be taken to Windsor, where it will be buried beneath the limply hanging silken banners of the Knights of the Garter. Already there also are his father, George V, his grandfather, and such ancient rulers as fabulous Henry VIII and beheaded Charles I.

District Meetings Held at Hotel Here

District meetings of two different organizations were held at the Hotel Washington here Wednesday.

At noon, those of the Dekalb Seed Corn organization in central Ohio met at noon in the banquet room and then went to the George Washington suite in the hotel for an afternoon of discussion of their problems.

In the evening, 50 representatives of Pontiac automobile dealers in southwestern Ohio gathered in the banquet room for dinner. They remained for a round table discussion of problems that confront the parts and service departments.

The Drummond Implement Co. here was the host for the Pontiac meeting and made most of the arrangements. Taking an active part in preparations for the meeting were Howard Kelley, Gene Holdren, Willard Wheaton and Bob Swift.

W. W. Knoche and Fred Benker, both of Cincinnati, were here to lead the Pontiac discussions and help find solutions for the problems outlined by the dealers and their representatives.

to be made to the full conference later and only a few inkblings of the deliberations leaked out before they adjourned for lunch at noon.

The group that was studying relationship with commercial companies, including schools, churches, farm organizations and the like, concluded that the awards and trophies in 4-H club programs should be handled by the 4-H club councils in each county.

IT WAS ALSO AGREED that good relations with the schools is important and that home economics associations could be helpful in getting the home demonstration agents acquainted.

Discussions continued almost without interruption, although on an informal basis, right through the lunch hour. Then, the conference was resumed on a tight schedule at 1 P. M. to continue almost until dinner time.

A similar schedule of discussions was planned for Friday. Hardly a major topic in Extension Service was overlooked; if any was it was id undoubtedly would be brought said it undoubtedly would be brought in as a sidelight.

Counties represented at the conference were Fayette, Darke, Preble, Butler, Hamilton, Miami, Montgomery, Warren, Clermont, Champaign, Clark, Greene, Clinton, Highland, Adams, Franklin, Pickaway, Ross, Pike and Scioto.

Many of the conferees went to their homes for the night with plans to be back for the start of the sessions Friday. A few of them remained, however.

Grain Market

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—P—Grain sold a little under the previous close for most of the session on the Board of Trade Thursday. Toward the close, a rally set in.

Here and there some strength was noted. March corn firmed on buying attributed in part to export houses. And March soybeans enjoyed a little rumup which brokers thought stemmed mainly from short-covering.

Dealings were slow. The market seemed hesitant and uncertain in view of developments pertaining to Korean truce negotiations.

We, Like Britain, Face a Moral Problem

A moral problem, said to be facing Great Britain, has certain counterparts which many Americans recognize in this country also.

According to a recent issue of Intelligence Digest, a British publication that circulates in America, it is pointed out that Britain needs —

More work from slackers, migration to other parts of the empire, risk capital to develop commonwealth countries, tax incentives and American aid for profit making, particularly in the commonwealth countries.

Commenting on this British report one American publication states that in Britain, and in many parts of America, the work problem is the biggest of all. In many cases there is lacking a sense of duty; there seems to be absent a realization that money paid for work not done is about the same thing as money stolen.

If there was a deep feeling that the time spent on earth must be accounted for hereafter, a true sense of feeling that we are merely stewards and trustees of our money and time and if we really believe these things, the whole selfish trend of people's actions would change.

Still more fundamental is the need for a conviction that envy of others, hatred or exploitation of employers or employees, malice in politics and sharp practices in commerce, are not merely social evils when present in someone other than one's self, but sins to be answered for by one's self at the termination of one's own life—not merely at that of the other man.

After all these are moral problems. If we in America, Britain and other countries, could solve our moral problems, it seems entirely probable that healthy incentives could be offered and national and world-wide advancement and progress would reach new heights.

Presidential Age

An interesting situation has developed in the current discussion of potential candidates for President. It does not concern their qualifications as statesmen, or their knowledge of world affairs. Where they stand on the issues seems to be unimportant. The question is a simple one and concerns the ages of those being put forward in the two parties.

Whether a man is too old to occupy that important office seems to depend on his political affiliation. At 72, spry, vigorous and mentally alert Douglas MacArthur is described by Democratic politicians as being barred by the weight of years. These same party stalwarts are whooping it up for Alben Barkley, who is more than two years older than the famous soldier and is exhibiting various symptoms that the pace is too fast for him.

As for President Truman, approaching his 68th year, his supporters say he is the indispensable man, although another term would end in his 73rd year.

Apparently the handicap of age applies only to the party of the opposition. If a man's political ideas are right, his followers are convinced that he will live forever.

Some persons have charming personalities and others are compelled to work their way through the world.

In Washington, Rumors Shout

WASHINGTON — (P) —Wilbur Peeble, the average American citizen, took a few days off to see for himself what really is going on in this home base of Democracy.

He tells his first impressions of the nation's capital in the following letter to his wife:

Dear Trellis Mae,

Well, honey, here I am in the arsenal of politics.

You can quit worrying right now about us being caught up in another big war. The first thing I noticed was that the Pentagon has an annex. That proves we must be ready for any emergency.

There is a heartening air of virtue about Washington right now. Billy Graham, the handsome young evangelist, is sternly attacking sin at one end of the city, and Congress is giving it hell at the other end.

No evil-doing can stand up under this kind of cross-fire, and if there is any corruption left here, it must have gone underground. They say that even the "five percenters" are so ashamed of themselves they have reduced their rates to four-and-one-half per cent.

I promised to give you the low-down — the inside straight on what is going on here. But the hardest thing to pin down here is a fact. Facts whisper in Washington, rumors shout.

All anybody seems to know for sure is what he overhears. My idea of Washington right now is a bunch of people standing in a circle with their hands to their ears, each trying to hear what the next fellow is whispering. The trouble is nobody seems to really know anything.

The biggest whisper factories are the cocktail parties, just like back home. I went to one party. Here is a remark I overheard—and you can take it for what it is worth.

"President Truman has positively decided to run again. He figured that he couldn't swing the nomination to Governor Stevenson of Illinois or anybody else but himself. Besides, he feels Taft will get the Republican nomination, and he thinks he can beat Taft."

The best of the conversation at the party was mostly gossip about what government official would be thrown out next. That is the most popular guessing game in the capital: "Who's on his way out?"

I told one fellow at the party that kind of gossip was heartless, and he said:

"No. You see, everybody in this town is always on his way out. It's just a matter of when. They did use to let a guy warm his seat for a month or two before they started screaming he was incompetent or subversive. But now they start talking about throwing him out before he even arrives to take over his office."

Then this man asked me if I was looking for a post. When I started shuddering, he said:

"Well, if you ever do, I'll give you a tip. The only sure way to get a job in Washington is to announce you don't want it, and that you double-dog dare the Senate to confirm you if you are appointed. Well, you know senators. They never take a dare."

Oh, yes, I forgot to tell you—a wave of dieting is sweeping the capital. Everybody is climbing on a diet or just falling off one. A government employee I met at lunch explained why:

"It's election year," he said, "and we don't want people saying we are living off the fat of the land."

I told him to go on and have another calorie — us taxpayers aren't that sensitive.

Well, I must close now as I have just been invited to two more cocktail parties. Somebody told me going to an ugly rumor that I'm going to be appointed to the Supreme Court.

Just Who Does Protect America?

An exchange of correspondence between Senator Arthur V. Watkins of Utah and General Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, provides extraordinary and startling information concerning the dangers to the defense of the United States in the Pacific. This correspondence took place last September.

Senator Watkins wrote to General Bradley with this object:

"I will appreciate receiving a statement as to the views of the joint chiefs of staff in respect to the strategic significance of section (C) of article 2 of chapter II of the proposed treaty (the Japanese peace treaty) in order that I may make it a matter of record for information of my colleagues when the proposed peace treaty comes before the Senate for ratification."

To this General Bradley replied explaining that some of the provisions of the Japanese peace treaty are in reality based on prior agreements made with other governments.

For instance, he called attention to the fact that at the Cairo conference Roosevelt, Churchill and Chiang Kai-Shek had agreed that Japan would be compelled to relinquish her gains in the Pacific and on the continent of Asia, practically going back to 1895. This relates to the Cairo declaration which, however, was secretly vitiated at Tehran within a week after the meeting to which General Bradley refers.

Then he went into the question of the Yalta agreement which gave to Soviet Russia, southern Sakhalin and the islands adjacent thereto and the Kurile Islands. The Japanese peace treaty, while confirming Japan's renunciation of these areas, does not define their future status. However, as a practical measure, Soviet Russia is in possession of them, because she entered the Far Eastern war about one week before it was over.

So, General Omar Bradley wrote the senator:

"Currently, Russia is the sole occupying power of the islands in question, having acquired them at the close of World War II. The joint chiefs of staff are fully aware of the strategic importance of the area in question and under present circumstances are not completely satisfied concerning its security. However, in view of the current world situation, it is believed that the interests of the United States are best served by leaving the permanent status of the area to be determined at a future date when international tensions have been eased."

The general's letter is difficult to understand at this point. If the joint chiefs are not completely satisfied concerning the security of this area—by which it is to be assumed he means Sakhalin and Kurile Islands—how can he possibly feel secure about Japan or Alaska? Also, if the Russians are in possession, how does he expect to get them out?

Soviet Russia holds Siberia, Manchuria, North Korea, Sakhalin and the Kurile Islands. Japan then sits a lake with Russia on three sides and the United States navy on the fourth side.

The Kurile Islands are stepping stones toward Alaska.

Anyone who understands the economic or military geography of Asia knows that Korea could not have been the objective of the Soviet effort on that peninsula, because Korea is not worthwhile. The target could only have been Japan. Soviet Russia was prevented from occupying Japan alone or by such a zoning arrangement as was made in Germany and Austria by General Douglas MacArthur, who resisted Russia's efforts in that direction.

Should the United States force be withdrawn from Japan 90 days after the ratification of the Japanese peace treaty, would that mean war between Soviet Russia and the United States over Japan?

According to General Bradley's letter to Senator Watkins, it might and it would not—might, because otherwise there is no reason for not being "completely satisfied concerning its security"; would not, because General Bradley, in his letter, also says:

"... Essentially, the treaty is drawn in terms which do not contain within themselves the seeds of another war. The joint chiefs of staff are of the opinion that this treaty, along with the proposed United States-Japanese security treaty, which should come into force simultaneously, will provide the United States the maximum security obtainable in the Far East at this time."

Which is correct, then? Is security, under the Japanese peace treaty, inadequate, or is the treaty satisfactory? Before the Senate ratifies this treaty, it might request General Bradley to explain the contradictions in this letter. Perhaps the security treaty solves the problem, but we need to know more about that.

"Somebody wants to speak to the boss—which one of you will take it?"

Diet and Health

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Pregnancy outside the womb seems to be on the increase, and penicillin is thought to be responsible. This is another reason why the pregnant woman should see her doctor early, and have regular check-ups when pregnant.

The usual place for pregnancy is in the womb. Pregnancies anywhere else are abnormal, but quite a number have been known to occur outside the womb. Many pregnancies have taken place in the tube, the passage between the ovary and womb.

Serious Complication

Pregnancy in the tube can prove to be a serious complication. When the maturing embryo grows too large, it may rupture the tube, causing severe hemorrhage, with symptoms of shock, and even death of the mother. Early attention to this condition, with prompt surgical treatment has usually been very effective in saving the mother's life.

Many women who have had infection and inflammation of one of the female organs, such as the tube, have been treated with penicillin. This drug adequately improves this condition, reopening the tube that was closed by the inflammation.

However, a certain amount of damage, such as scar tissue, may remain in the tube, even though it is again open, and this scarring can interfere with the ovum as it descends through the tube to the womb. Pregnancy in the tube can be the result.

Definite figures have shown that there is an increased ratio of pregnancies in the tube since the advent of penicillin and its use for female infections. Physicians are, therefore, becoming more alert in detecting this unusual condition early, in order to protect the mother at the right time.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Y. L. M.: I have viscerotoposis. Could you tell me something about this condition?

Answer: The dropping of any of the internal organs is known as viscerotoposis. When the stomach is lower than the usual position, the person is said to have ptosis of the stomach. Not as much importance is attached to this condition now as formerly, since it has been discovered that some of the organs, although not located in their normal position in the body, still function properly.

When misplacement of an organ causes trouble, the individual can sometimes be aided by the use of a belt for support. Occasionally, an operation is necessary to correct the difficulty.

Short Turnpike Plan Revealed

COLUMBUS, Feb. 7.—(P)—The Ohio Turnpike will stretch from the Pennsylvania border to near Toledo, to start with. The turnpike commission decided Tuesday to build 181 miles of the super-road to Route 20 west of the Maumee River, but to delay building the 60-mile westward extension to the Indiana border.

The commissioners said it would save $48 million in the initial bond issue and use 15 per cent less steel. The 181-mile section would start at the western end of the Pennsylvania Turnpike, near Petersburg.

Boys Get Woozy On Spider Webs

CALI, Colombia, Feb. 7.—(P)—Spiders these days are arachnids non gratia in the Cali jail. It seems inmates in a particular cell had been turning up tipsy—regularly. Smuggled narcotics were suspected. A trap produced no smuggler, and the jailbirds still got plastered.

The cops watched. They saw the prisoners form a human pyramid with the top man busily gathering cobwebs from the ceiling. These they rolled in cigarette paper, lit them and puffed themselves higher than the nearby Andes.

Liquor Chieftain 'Punished Enough'

COLUMBUS, Feb. 7.—(P)—State Liquor Director William C. Bryant says he plans no disciplinary action against the chief of the liquor permit division who pleaded guilty to drunken driving in Lancaster.

Bryant said he had admonished the division head, Francis K. Cole, and had been assured there would be "no further cause for reproach." Cole had his driving rights suspended for 90 days and was fined $100 in Lancaster municipal court Monday. Bryant said Cole had a good record, and he believed he had been punished enough already "apart from the penalty imposed by the court."

Mrs. M. Lemley Is Guest Speaker At CCL Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of Beta Circle Child Conservation League was held at the lovely home of Mrs. Paul Mohr.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Stanley Graumlich, who read the poem, "Beatitudes of the Housewife."

Following the usual reports, Mrs. Ray Warner, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. M. C. Lemley, primary teacher in the Jeffersonville School, who used as her topic, "Special Education for the Slow-Learning Child."

During her talk she pointed out that individual attention is needed for the slow-learning child which the usual teacher cannot give because of crowded conditions of the classrooms and special schools are being discontinued in favor of special classes in their own school system.

The child needs the proper home environment as much as the individual help at school and is never to be set apart, but be a part of the ordinary school activities, along with fun and love, as well as learning.

Following her well-received talk, a white elephant sale was held with Mrs. Martin O'Cull acting as a clever auctioneer.

The members lingered for a pleasant social hour, during which Mrs. Mohr was assisted by Mrs. Ed Moser and Mrs. Gene Alkire in the serving of dainty refreshments, carrying out a Valentine theme.

You need never know a hungry moment while reducing with Rennel. Note how quickly bloatedness appears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active. Insist on genuine Rennel.

Three Members Give Papers at Browning Club

Members of Browning Club met at the home of Mrs. Paul Anderson with Mrs. Elton Elliott, president, presiding. Mrs. Elliott announced that Mr. Ralph Penn had invited Browning Club to take part in Sesqui-centennial since Browning was among the oldest clubs here.

The short business meeting was conducted and then turned over to Mrs. Tranquillo Del Ponte, chairman of the program, who introduced Mrs. Ray Terrell in a most interesting paper on "The Storied Coverlet" depicting the origin and weaving of hand-woven coverlets.

"The art of weaving had its beginning in prehistoric days. Egyptians may have been the first to make textile fabrics or perhaps it was China twenty-five hundred years before Christ. Italy was the first European country to weave cotton and wool. Early in the 17th Century the Puritans brought the art to America."

"The women of the Old South considered weaving a most womanly art; every plantation had its weaving room and the mistress often trained the slaves to spin and weave and up to 1785 only hand weaving was known, until science and invention created machinery that made the human hand seem awkward and clumsy."

"In the old days a linen thread was used for the warp, flax had to be grown, hatched, and spun. Now the coverlet is of cotton overshot with wool, and these materials, too, are a home product."

Mrs. Terrell closed her part of the program by showing a coverlet in her possession — 98 years old.

The second paper for the evening given by Mrs. Glenn Rodgers was "Pittsburgh to Cairo", telling of beauty along the Ohio River. Mrs. Rodgers opened her paper with a most interesting description of a trip she had made some years ago along the Ohio.

Her paper related the happenings along the Ohio River stating, "It's full of surprise and the unexpected!"

"When the French first met the Iroquois in the 17th Century, the Redskins inhabitants of the Eastern Great Lake basin spoke of a river which rose to the South of their land and flowed west; this aroused the interest of Europeans in search for a short route to China." They called the river, Ohio, and the name was later translated by the French as "The Beautiful".

finest Shakespeare collection" and refer to it as the "biggest little library in the world."

A brief history of the life of Henry Folger was given. A lecture given by Ralph Waldo Emerson inspired Folger's great love for Shakespeare.

After many years of collecting he announced that he would erect a library in the Nation's capital to house his collection. Two weeks after the corner stone of the two and one half million dollar building was laid, Mr. Folger died, never having seen his collection as a whole. His will left the library to the American people and endowed it with adequate funds for upkeep. Its administration was placed in the hands of men aware of educational and scholarly values, the trustees of his Alma Mater — Amherst College.

These days the Folger welcomes about 30 scholars each month plus a goodly number of stage and movie people.

The greatest thorn in the side of the Folger Library is the occasional letter they receive with really them all. It usually comes from a school boy or girl and asks: "Please tell me all you know about Shakespeare!"

At the close of the well given papers refreshments were served by Mrs. Anderson assisted by Mrs. Frank Jackson and Mrs. Stanley Scott.

They were accompanied by Mrs. Alma McCoppin, principal of the school, and George Lansing, bus driver.

Those who made the tour were as follows: Ruth Burton, Phyllis Thompson, Lela Paul, Ellen McCoy, Betty Thompson, Everett Davidson, Eugene Winters, Eileen Rockhold, Evelyn Newlan, Daisy Newman, Joyce Theobald, Janice Hamilton, Wanita Medley, Julie Payve, Jerry Johnson, Robert Barker, Herman Johnson and Judy Betz.

Customers' Corner

We've 93 Candles on Our Cake!

Your A&P is 93 years young this week. For it was about this time in 1859 that our founder, George Huntington Hartford, proudly opened the doors of his modest little store on Vesey Street in downtown New York, the forerunner of today's A&P.

Even with his vision, we suppose he'd be surprised to see how his little business has grown.

We think he'd be proud, though, to know that the basic idea that guided him then, "to bring more good food to more people for less money," has been the reason for our growth.

We pledge to maintain this principle as long as there's an A&P!

Lion Cub Win At Mt. Sterling

Seventh Victory
Of Season Scored

The Lion Cubs racked up their seventh victory of the season against one defeat when they added the Mt. Sterling Juniors to the list of vanquished opponents.

The game was played on the Mt. Sterling floor Wednesday afternoon and the score was a decisive 38 to 22 in favor of the Washington C. H. boys.

The Cubs lost no time in getting their scoring machine in gear, but they slowed down in the second period and scored only 5 points after taking a 12-5 lead in the first quarter.

Then they came back from the intermission with an effective offense while tightening their defense.

All of the Cubs had a hand in the scoring, but it was Brown who racked up the most points as he dropped in seven field goals, most of them from close in, as the climax of fast and accurate team work.

The Cubs have lost but one game this season. It was to the Greenfield Tiger Cubs in a return tilt after they had beaten them decisively in the first meeting.

The Cubs have lost but one game this season. It was to the Greenfield Tiger Cubs in a return tilt after they had beaten them decisively in the first meeting.

One more game remains on the Cub schedule. It is with Hillsboro's Papooses and will be played here next Wednesday afternoon.

A BASKETBALL BALLET or a dance of the (hardwood) nymphs was a part of the performance put on in the WHS gymnasium Tuesday night when the Hillsboro cage teams, Reserves and Varsity, played here, but it took the camera to catch it. The full effect of the athletic gymnastics is usually lost by the crowd in the fast action. Above are just two of nearly a dozen pictures snapped at the game by the Record-Herald photographer. Because of lack of time and space, they were not even printed until Wednesday evening. But, they looked so good, it was decided to squeeze them in . . . better late than never. THE PICTURE ON THE LEFT was taken during the Varsity game. It shows an unidentified Hillsboro basketball player leaping high into the air trying futilely to block a pass by Wayne Van Meter. At the right is Jack Rettig, probably watching the ball and paying attention to the Indian dance. THE ONE ON THE RIGHT was snapped during the Reserve game. That's Hillsboro's Fender (26) bouncing like a jumping jack trying to block a basket by Dale Coppock (10). (Record-Herald Photos) in a powerful automobile is no match for the birds of the air. The Record-Herald photographer dashed out of the office and headed for the Engle farm on the Jones Road, just north of Bloomington, almost before Mrs. Engle had finished telling about the strange and awesome sight. But, he could not locate the starling horde. He could see the dark mass in the distance, but by the time he followed the roads in the direction it had moved on.

Finally, he came back to the office, tired and frustrated—and without the picture. There was disappointment throughout the office.

MRS. ENGLE WAS not seeing things; she was not having illusions. Neither was the photographer.

Others in the community, contacted by telephone, said they had seen the bird mass, too.

Harvey Andrews, who lives on the Jones Road, saw them. He said they covered a 17-acre clover field on the back of his farm. He agreed that Mrs. Engle could have described the size of the flock without exaggeration but, he added, he did not get as close a look at it as she did.

From his farm, he said the birds took to the air, flying comparatively low, and moved south like a heavy storm cloud.

Andrews said he had been noticing "a good many" starling around the community for several weeks, but had never seen anything like the sight he saw Wednesday afternoon.

They were reported on the An-

is LONG FELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Council Seeks Curb On Reckless Driving

The Student Council at Washington C. H. High School took steps at its regular meeting Wednesday to curb reckless driving in the high school area.

Members of the council selected a committee to draw up a plan for establishing a student traffic court at the high school.

Offenders would be required to appear before the court to answer to charges of reckless operation.

Those who will work on the court committee include: Jim Williams, Barbara Barger, John Melvin, Jim Michael, Bud Dawson and Mary McDonald.

COUNCIL MEMBERS also voted to have a registration of all cars driven to the school by students.

The committee which checked in to the showing of noon movies on inclement days to students made a report and suggested that the first movie feature a travelogue and a cartoon. The council is not to spend more than $10 for each movie shown.

The chapel committee was instructed to draw up a program of chapel programs and when they are to be sponsored by various student clubs and organizations.

It was reported that $4.12 was realized from a recent auction.

Dairymen Discuss Problems

Association Here Elects Officers At Annual Meet

Almost 200 Fayette County Dairy Association members and their guests were present for the election of five township directors and a delegate to the state convention and to hear a number of talks and reports during the annual meeting and banquet at the Washington C. H. Country Club Wednesday evening.

Robert Klever, present director, was reelected for Marion Township; Bill Davis, for Wayne Township; Elmer Haymaker, for Union Township; Gerald Straley, for Jefferson Township and Forrest Reser, for Jasper Township.

Directors whose terms have another year to go are Rex Bloomer, Perry; Kenneth Bush, Concord; James Wolfe, Green; Russell Douglas, Madison, and Ralph Pope, Paint.

Rex Bloomer was elected delegate to the Central Ohio Breeding Association meeting.

NINETY MEMBERS of the association were given certificates showing they had attended the recent sessions of the dairy breeding school held in January. R. R. Starbuck, extension dairyman from Ohio State University, presented the certificates.

Starbuck presented Ralph Agle and his sons, of near Jeffersonville, a certificate for their work in the Dairy Herd Improvement Association. Agle and his sons have a herd of 58 Guernsey cows which produced an average of 6,386 pounds of milk.

Also introduced was Kaman Ahmed, Egyptian exchange student, who is doing graduate work in animal breeding at Ohio State University.

Dale Smith, technician, gave a report of artificial breeding in Fayette County, which showed that during the past year 1,251 cows were serviced by this method which is 400 more than in 1950 and double of that of 1949. In performing his duties Smith said he drove his automobile more than 35,000 miles last year.

Richard Brown, testing supervisor, reported that 12 herds in the association were on a regular testing schedule in 1951, the total cows being 249. The herd average was 21.5 cows.

Production testing keeps tab on the amount of milk and butter produced by a herd, as compared with the amount and types of feed per 100 pounds of milk.

The average per cow was 7,021 pounds of milk which tested 4.2 butter fat, with 297.6 percent fat. The net value was $347.08 average.

The total feed cost for the herd averages $153.91 per cow and shows a net profit of $193.17 per cow, Brown said.

RICHARD KELLOGG, manager of the Central Ohio Breeding Association, called for increased use of the service to the farmers in Fayette County during the next year.

He reported that the average cow in the United States produces 5,292 pounds of milk, while the state of Ohio average is 5,000 pounds. The average of Fayette County, he said, is about 4,000 pounds.

E. J. Cunningham gave the report of the program and planning committee which called for better breeding and production testing by members for the coming year. The use of better land practices and a more complete information program to the membership is needed, he said. In closing Cunningham called for increased membership with added activity.

Guests introduced were Perry Ellsworth, dairy technician from Ohio State University, Cliff Wilson and Elmer Coalmorgan of the Central Ohio Breeding Association, Paul Rodenfels, general manager of the Record-Herald, L. M. Geiger, vocational agriculture instructor from Jeffersonville High School, and Albert Cobb, associate county agent.

NEARLY 200 FAYETTE COUNTY DAIRYMEN and their families gather for the annual dinner and meeting of the Fayette County Dairy Association at the Country Club here Wednesday evening. (Record-Herald Photo)

Dr. Fordyce Ely, chairman of the Department of Dairy Science at Ohio State University and of the Ohio Agricultural experiment station, told the members only that through proper methods a dairy man hope to reap a profit and have a successful business.

IN DISCUSSING the amount of energy needed by a cow to produce milk and butter, Dr. Ely compared the cow with a marathon runner. The runner, he said, expends a great deal of energy in running 26 miles, but it is only a small amount compared with the tremendous amount expended by a cow year after year.

Only through breeding, selection, management and proper feeding and testing can dairying become a successful business, Ely said in closing.

Albert Cobb, associate county extension agent, introduced members of the Future Farmers of America club members and members of the county 4-H Dairy Clubs who were special guests of the evening.

Those present from the Jeffersonville FFA chapter were: Roger Stockwell, Ronald Cornell, Lewis Carr, Howard Harlan and Richard Hays. Hugh Wilson and Ray Blair represented the Washington C. H. FFA chapter.

4-H Dairy Club Members present were: Kemp Allemang, Jay Bennett, Dick Barton, Pearl Claytor, Clarence Conaway, Stanley Conaway, Susan Dray, David Dray, Carolyn Dray, Jerry Dray, Lynn Frook.

John Hoppes, Richard Klever, Vernon Lightle, John McFadden, Jimmy Pope, Donna Lou Rife, Ronnie Sears, Roberta Theobald, Joanne Weidinger and Bill Wright. Kenneth Bush, Concord township director, acted as toastmaster with

W. W. Montgomery, county extension agent, giving the invocation.

Mrs. Jerry Dray, accompanied by Hazel Engle, sang two numbers during the evening and there was also some group singing.
